

Greco took sexual lure, lawyer says

By Sheridan Lyons
Baltimore County Bureau of The Sun

Vincent Tito Greco, Jr., did kill his girl friend's grandmother, one of his attorneys told a jury yesterday—but only after she persuaded him to have sexual intercourse with her and attacked him with a paring knife as he lay dozing on her kitchen floor.

Yesterday's opening statement by defense attorney David Povich was the first time that Mr. Greco's version of the events of last April 17 has been presented to the jury, although it has been hinted at throughout the six days of the prosecution's case.

The state is seeking the death penalty against Mr. Greco, 22, of the 2100 block Folkstone road in Timonium. He is being tried on charges that he raped and strangled Leta J. Larsen, 78, at her home in the 1000 block Marleigh circle in Towson.

"This is an emotional case, and the chance for injustice and miscarriage of justice is terrific," Mr. Povich told the panel of nine men and three women, who were seated after a week of intensive questioning.

"We are dealing with very terrible and sensitive personal problems," he said. "This tragedy started with a strange series of telephone calls."

Last April 16, he said, Mr. Greco talked with his girl friend, Sheryl Fitch, 21, about giving her a ride home to Timonium from College Park the next day, Good Friday. He also talked with Miss Fitch's mother, Corinne Fitch, and with Mrs. Larsen.

"We will show in the testimony of Mr. Greco that Mrs. Larsen was complaining about his relationship with Sheryl Fitch. . . . She didn't like his drinking. She believed he took drugs. He wasn't good enough for her."

See GRECO, D6, Col. 3

State backs composting of sludge

By Michael K. Burns

The Maryland Environmental Service is proposing to turn Baltimore's unwanted sewage sludge from the Back River treatment plant into compost at the plant, at a cost comparable to that of the current practice of dumping it on land.

The state agency has operated two composting facilities for sludge from Washington's Blue Plains treatment plant for more than a year, marketing the organic gardening material under the trade name ComPro. The service says it has orders for more sludge compost than it can produce, with the current backlog at 40,000 cubic yards.

Composting the Back River plant's sludge, which has been difficult to dispose of on land because it contains relatively high levels of metals from industrial uses, could cost $20 to $35 a ton, according to Thomas D. McKeown, director of the Environmental Service.

"It's a method that deserves serious consideration and would allow time for a long-term solution to the problem of Back River sludge," he said.

Composting sludge—the residue of sewer treatment plants—with solid waste is also a possibility to solve two waste problems with one process. The two M&S sites in Prince Georges and Montgomery counties compost sludge with wood chips, at a cost of about $25 a ton of sludge, excluding transport.

See SLUDGE, D8, Col. 3

City in forefront with language plan

By Robert Benjamin

The city school board hopes to lead the school system into the forefront of a mild national resurgence of interest in foreign language studies.

Fewer than one of four students at Baltimore's public secondary schools now study a foreign language, a figure typical of most school districts across the country. But under a sweeping plan likely to be approved by the board tonight, that percentage could double in the next few years.

The plan, formally announced two weeks ago, puts strong emphasis on providing language courses for students as early as fourth grade and on encouraging them to continue these studies in junior and senior high.

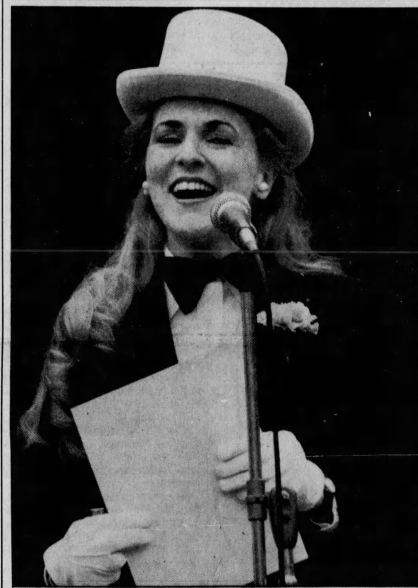

It will make the city schools the

Sun photos—Lloyd Pearson

Irish revelry

City Hall's official St. Patrick's Day celebration was held yesterday in War Memorial Plaza, featuring the Ceananf Mor School of Irish Dancing (above), a song by Annie Nolan (below, left) and a big smile from 9-month-old Dawn Fridley as she sat in the arms of her grandmother, Edna Hill.

Aberdeen police zero in on men who talk to prostitutes

By Jay Spry

The Aberdeen police department has something to write home about: It's launched an anti-prostitution campaign that involves sending letters to the homes of men spotted talking to prostitutes.

Embarrassment is a key weapon in the department's drive against the illicit sex trade, and the police hope the warning letters will discourage any return business.

Acting Chief Lemuel E. Porter, Jr., recently signed and mailed the seventh in a series of letters to men whom police observed holding such conversations.

Although talk alone can't support an arrest and prosecution, Chief Porter said yesterday, home mailboxes will have the desired effect. The letters advise the recipient to visit the department to assist in its investigation of prostitution.

Chief Porter, who has headed the Harford county town's police department since the former chief was dismissed late last summer, said the new policy had been under consideration since last fall.

"We haven't gotten the program fully under way yet," the chief said. His first letter went out about 2½ months ago—well before Baltimore city began a "Dear John" campaign in which, for a first offense, warning letters are handed to men who proposition undercover women policemen posing as prostitutes.

In Baltimore, the men must sign the warning letter (or otherwise identify themselves) and are told that a second offense will mean arrest and prosecution.

In such a situation in Aberdeen, police would not issue a warning. "If we had that kind of evidence, we would make an arrest and prosecute," the chief said.

In the conversations he and his men have observed so far, the women had already entered the cars or vans of the potential customers, according to Chief Porter.

The letters program, he said, works this way:

"When I get proper and very good information that a person has been seen in a stopped car, and conversing with a known prostitute, the tag number is given to me. I find out who they are and I send a letter to that home address."

The letter states, according to Chief Porter, that his department is investigating prostitution and drugs in Aberdeen's Market street-Warren avenue area and that the driver of the vehicle registered in the letter recipient's

2 bankers suspended in Garrett

Past-due loans cited; ex-director is closing stores

Special to The Sun

Oakland—The president and vice president of Garrett National Bank have been suspended amid reports of irregularities involving "a group of related past-due loans," the bank announced here yesterday.

The suspended officers are Nordeck Shaffer, the president, and H. Rex Teagarden, vice president and cashier. They have resigned from the board of directors of the bank along with a third member, Irvin Feld, president of H.P. Stores, Inc.

The bank's statement coincided with the announced closing of Mr. Feld's family business, which operates 16 clothing stores in the Tri-State area of Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Bank officials refused to identify the borrowers or the amount of the loans involved.

A spokesman for the FBI's Baltimore office said yesterday that its resident agent in Cumberland was investigating the bank problem, but declined further comment.

Mr. Feld maintained there was "no relation" between the loan problems at the bank and the closing of the stores operated by his family for half a century.

"In my viewpoint," he said, "they are separate and distinct things."

Garrett National's board chairman, Dr. James H. Feaster, Jr., who took over as acting president, said the bank will probably "experience some loss," but he would not say how many loans were involved or the amounts that remain unpaid.

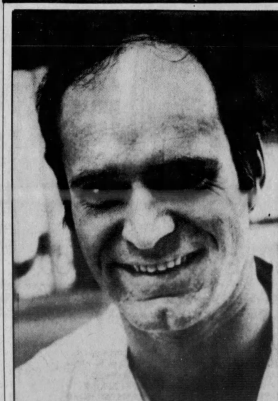

The bank's official statement on the problem following a Tuesday night meeting of its board of directors. It said:

"A recent audit on a group of related past-due loans revealed irregularities in several checking accounts maintained at the bank by the borrowers on these loans and by several related parties.

"These irregularities called into question the ability of the borrowers to repay the loans. It is now expected the bank will experience some loss, the magnitude of which cannot be determined until activity in the checking accounts ceases, arrangements can be made with the borrowers, collateral on loans have been valued and liquidated, and insurance coverage resolved."

Dr. Feaster, a physician who serves as the Garrett county medical examiner, would not elaborate on the prepared statement, which stressed that customer deposits were safe and

See GARRETT, D2, Col. 5

DR. BRUCE A. REITZ developed heart-lung transplant program

Hopkins hires pioneer

Heart-lung transplants set

By Mary Knudson

Johns Hopkins Hospital will become the second medical center in the world to offer heart-lung transplants after hiring one of the nation's pioneers of this surgery from the only existing center, Stanford University.

Dr. Bruce A. Reitz, 37, developed the heart-lung transplant program at Stanford University Hospital, where six patients have undergone the combined operation. Four of the patients are living. The longest surviving patient is a 45-year-old woman who underwent the rare surgery slightly more than a year ago.

Dr. Reitz said in a telephone interview from Stanford yesterday that Hopkins was able to lure him to Baltimore with an offer to head the division of cardiac surgery here.

He said he will arrive June 1 and that it will take three to six months to assemble a team for the surgery. Dr. Reitz's presence also will allow Hopkins to start doing heart transplants—a more common operation than the heart-lung transplant combination.

Dr. Reitz said that about eight hospitals in the country—none in Maryland—now do heart transplants. The closest facility that does the operation is the Medical College of Virginia.

He said that to his knowledge, Stanford is the only center in the world that is performing heart-lung transplants.

Dr. Reitz's work with the transplants is the subject of the lead article in the current issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, a prominent medical publication.

Candidates for the operation are those adults who have pulmonary hypertension, a rare form of high blood pressure that is based in the lungs and causes a person to turn blue and have shortness of breath, and people with congenital heart defects in which blood vessels going to the lungs are also impaired.

The operation costs $75,000 at Stanford, Dr. Reitz said. Most insurance companies pay about half of that amount, he said. Stanford has a grant from the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, an arm of the National Institutes of Health, that pays for the remaining costs so that patients are not charged.

Dr. Reitz said he will apply for a similar grant to help finance the work at Hopkins. See HEART, D2, Col. 1

Michael Olesker has the day off.

Szulinski, active in Brooklyn Park, dies

A Mass of Christian Burial for Alfred F. Szulinski, who was active in civic and political affairs in the Brooklyn Park area, will be held at 10 a.m. today at Holy Rosary Church, 601 South Chester street.

Mr. Szulinski, 65, lived at the 100 block Wallace avenue in Brooklyn Park. He died Monday at Charles Home and Hospital after a short illness.

He had been a design draftsman, retiring from Westinghouse Electric in August after 30 years of service. Earlier he worked for the Piasecki Helicopter Company near Philadelphia and Fairchild Industries in Hagerstown.

He was a member of the board of North Arundel Hospital, and for much of the past 17 years was chairman of the Anne Arundel Police Community Council.

In 1964 he was named to the Metropolitan Transit Authority and served about six years.

He also sat on the Anne Arundel Board of Election Supervisors in the early 1960s, but withdrew after filing as a candidate for the Board of County Commissioners.

He was a former president of the Brooklyn Heights Improvement Association and the Roland Terrace Democratic Club, was active in the Brooklyn Communities Association and was a member of the Stony Creek and Lake Shore Democratic clubs.

He also belonged to the Glen Burnie Golfing and Links and Moose.

A native of Curtis Bay, he attended Poly and graduated from Calvert Hall College. He later took courses at the Johns Hopkins University, the University of Maryland and the University of Baltimore.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jane A. Zukowski, a daughter, Jeanette Rezer of Relay, his mother, Josephine Szulinski of Brooklyn Park, brother, Milton J. Szulinski of Richard, Wash., and three grandchildren.

road, died yesterday at the Jenkins Memorial Home after a long illness.

A Mass of Christian Burial for Mr. Williams, who was 97 and lived at the home for two years, will be offered at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Immaculate Conception Church in Baltimore.

He retired in 1954 as the general freight agent for sales and service in the railroad's eastern region.

A native of Clinton, Iowa, he started working for the B&O as an office boy in Chicago and worked in the freight traffic departments there, in Milwaukee and in Cumberland before being assigned to the headquarters office in Baltimore in 1932.

During a luncheon in his honor a year ago, sponsored by an organization of retired administrative officers of the railroad, he made it that he had set a record by receiving payoffs or retirement checks from the railroad for 82 years.

His wife, the former Helen Schmidt, died in 1978.

He lived in the Baltimore area, he lived in Roland Park, Towson and finally in the home before entering Jenkins Memorial Home.

He is survived by two sons, Harold A. Williams, Jr., of Baltimore, and Robert A. Williams, of Hampton; two daughters, Mrs. William A. Doyle, and Mrs. Thomas A. Riley, both of Littleville; and four grandchildren, and 4 great-grandchildren.

Adoption group plans bull union

Adoption Associates will sponsor a bull and oyster roach from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on April 25 at Oregon Ridge.

Tickets are $15 a person.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Norma Cucci at 296-6334 or Carol White at 799-0164.

Eastern's 50th reunion

The class of 1933 of Eastern High School will hold its 50th reunion May 27 at the GreenSpring Inn.

Class members who have not been contacted may call Helen W. Wolfe at 435-8707 or 866-1253.

Sarah Rose, 66, city teacher

Services for Sarah A. Rose, a retired teacher in the Baltimore city school system, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Metropolitan United Methodist Church, Carrollton avenue and Lanvale street.

Mrs. Rose, who was 66, died Monday at her home in the 3600 block Edgewood road after a long illness.

She retired seven years ago as a teacher at the Dickey High Elementary School after 29 years in the city school system.

During that time, she also served as principal of a summer enrichment program at the Patapsco Elementary School and operated training programs for teachers' aides.

For 10 years before that, she taught in schools in Calvert county.

She was a member of Kappa Delta Phi and other professional society, and other professional groups.

At the Metropolitan United Methodist Church, she was Sunday school teacher, a member of the Communion Stewesses, a member of the finance committee and a member of the United Methodist Women.

She did volunteer work at Retired Hospital and in the office of the Mayor of Dimes.

She was active in several social groups, including Les Nees Femmes, the Leisureettes, the Birthday Circle, the Merry Makers Bowling League and the local graduate chapter of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority.

She is survived by her mother, Mary B. Walker, of Baltimore, and two sisters, Loretta Parzan, of St. Leonard's, and Horence Franklin, of Baltimore.

Harold A. Williams

Harold A. Williams, a retired official of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, died yesterday at the Jenkins Memorial Home after a long illness.

marian Hospital as a result of a stroke.

Before his retirement about a year ago he worked for many years in the accounting and auditing offices of the health care program that was administered by Social Security.

A certified public accountant, he also operated his own business, the Freelance Business Service, for more than 15 years in the Baltimore area.

A native of Baltimore and a member of the class of 1936 at Southern High School, he graduated from the University of Baltimore and also studied at the Baltimore College of Commerce.

He was a member of the board of the Pine Grove United Methodist Church and treasurer of its cemetery association.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mae Davis, a son, Charles H. Cheelsman III, of Baltimore; a daughter, Frances Marie Geier, of Free-lance; two sisters, Bernadine Conway, of Grasonville, and Ethel Sciazca, of Riviera Beach; a brother, Joseph Earl Cheelsman, of Parkville, and one grandson.

Penny Faith Martin

Services for Penny Faith Martin, an art enthusiast, were held March 8 at a private funeral establishment in Randallstown.

Mrs. Martin, who was 23 and lived in the 10500 block Old Court road in Woodstock, was killed March 5 in an auto accident on the intersection of Security boulevard and Forest Park avenue.

A native of Baltimore who was raised in Woodland, the former Penny Faith Thornton was educated at Faithland Lutheran Elementary School, the Woodland junior and senior high schools and Catonsville Community College.

As a child, she played on girls' softball teams in the Woodland area. She also was fond of cruising on the Chesapeake Bay, boat belonging to her parents, Hamilton H. and Priscilla Ann Letch, of Woodland.

Her husband, Ronald C. W. Martin, works at the General Motors plant in East Baltimore.

In addition to her husband and parents, survivors include a brother, Patrick Guzman of Woodland; two sisters, Tamara Lynn Guzman and Margaret Molloy, both of Woodland, and two granddaughters, Samuel and Hazel Smith of Woodland.

Francis G. Hoskins

Services for Francis G. Hoskins, a retired yardmaster for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, were held March 6 at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, in Ellicott City.

Mr. Hoskins, who was 67 and lived in the 4900 block Canvassback court in Columbia, died March 4 at Maryland General Hospital after a long illness.

He retired in 1975 as Washington yardmaster after working for the B&O for 37 years.

Starting as a clerk in Baltimore, he worked as a yardmaster or trainmaster in Philadelphia, Brunswick, Gassaway, W.Va., and State Island, N.Y., before being assigned to his final job in Washington.

A native of Connellsville, Pa., he was raised in the Baltimore area and educated at the Francis Day School, McDonough School and New Windsor College.

He is survived by his wife of 44 years, the former Marjorie Carruthers, three daughters, Barbara Keegan of Ellicott City, Jennifer Schaefer of Guam, and Deborah Dayhoff, of Columbia; his stepmother, Louise W. Hoskins of Baltimore; a brother, James C. Hoskins of Dunden, Fla.; a stepbrother, Thomas Ward, of Baltimore; a stepister, Jane W. Murray, of Baltimore, and five grandchildren.

Jerome J. Grabus

A Mass of Christian Burial for Jerome J. Grabus, a retired industrial engineer and a native of Baltimore, will be held at St. Timothy's Church in Norwood, Mass.

Mr. Grabus, who was 60, died March 4 at a Norwood hospital after a long illness. He lived in Norwood for more than 20 years.

Mr. Grabus retired last year after two years as an industrial engineer for Spear Associates, which manufactures parts for radar equipment.

Before joining Spear, he sold life insurance for the Knights of Columbus for about 10 years.

He is survived by his wife, the former Betty Pyle, two daughters, Carol Peck and Linda Grabus, both of Waltham, Mass.; a son, David Grabus, of Norwood; two brothers, Anthony Grabus, of Ocean City, and Eugene Grabus, of Lakewood, Colo., and two grandchildren.

Charles Cheelsman

Services for Charles H. Cheelsman, Jr., an accountant and retired Social Security Administration official, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Rock Towson funeral establishment, 1050 York road.

Mr. Cheelsman, who was 63 and lived in the 1400 block Walker road in Free-lance, died Monday at Good Sam-

Anti-prostitution drive on

LETTERS, from D1

The chief said that, as long as ago as last October, he tried to get the town's auxiliary police group involved and still hopes to get cooperation from its members in the program of observing men in contacts with prostitutes and then mailing the men letters.

While the program so far has brought no reaction from the letter recipients, it brought a negative one yesterday from the state executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, who denounced it as "repulsive police practice."

"That's what happens when you deal with victimless crime," said John C. Roemer III, the ACLU official. "The police overreach because that's the only way they can handle it."

In the ACLU's view, according to Mr. Roemer, police contacts with citizens should be limited to investigations of serious offenses or occasions when there may be an arrest.

"If there is no evidence of a crime and the police can still intimidate someone, there's no due process at all," Mr. Roemer added.

He doubted whether the program would be the basis for legal action, however, saying that the men involved probably would not want to identify themselves.

"If someone does want to challenge it and come forward, we'll be glad to consider supporting him," Mr. Roemer added.

Anti-prostitution drive on

LETTERS, from D1

The chief said that, as long as ago as last October, he tried to get the town's auxiliary police group involved and still hopes to get cooperation from its members in the program of observing men in contacts with prostitutes and then mailing the men letters.

While the program so far has brought no reaction from the letter recipients, it brought a negative one yesterday from the state executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, who denounced it as "repulsive police practice."

"That's what happens when you deal with victimless crime," said John C. Roemer III, the ACLU official. "The police overreach because that's the only way they can handle it."

In the ACLU's view, according to Mr. Roemer, police contacts with citizens should be limited to investigations of serious offenses or occasions when there may be an arrest.

"If there is no evidence of a crime and the police can still intimidate someone, there's no due process at all," Mr. Roemer added.

He doubted whether the program would be the basis for legal action, however, saying that the men involved probably would not want to identify themselves.

"If someone does want to challenge it and come forward, we'll be glad to consider supporting him," Mr. Roemer added.

HOSON 19a On March 15, 1982, BETTY E. (nee Richardson) of the late Charles A. Hodson, devoted mother of Mrs. Gladys Richardson, Mrs. Tom and Charles Hodson, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

HUGHES 19a On March 15, 1982, the late Mrs. Mary Hughes, devoted mother of Mrs. Virginia Hughes and brother, Charles F. Hughes. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

HUTCHINS On March 16, 1982, MARTHA (nee Anderson) of the late Mrs. Wm. H. Hutchins Sr., devoted mother of Mrs. Wm. H. Hutchins Jr., dear mother of Mrs. Mary Hutchins, dear grandmother of Mrs. Robert Kieper, Paul and Richard Hutchins. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

KAPFER 19a On March 17, 1982, ANNA S. (nee Brodick) of the late Mrs. John Kapfer, beloved mother of Mrs. William M. Kapfer, beloved mother-in-law of Mrs. Leonard Stoler, dear mother of Mrs. Roslyn Stoler, loving grandmother of Mrs. Alan and Harriet Lee Kapfer, and five grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

KAPFER 19a On March 17, 1982, ANNA S. (nee Brodick) of the late Mrs. John Kapfer, beloved mother of Mrs. William M. Kapfer, beloved mother-in-law of Mrs. Leonard Stoler, dear mother of Mrs. Roslyn Stoler, loving grandmother of Mrs. Alan and Harriet Lee Kapfer, and five grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

KAPFER 19a On March 17, 1982, ANNA S. (nee Brodick) of the late Mrs. John Kapfer, beloved mother of Mrs. William M. Kapfer, beloved mother-in-law of Mrs. Leonard Stoler, dear mother of Mrs. Roslyn Stoler, loving grandmother of Mrs. Alan and Harriet Lee Kapfer, and five grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

KRAFT 19a On March 16, 1982, OLIVE (nee Westcott) of the late Mrs. William Kraft, beloved mother of Mrs. Robert Kraft, dear mother of Mrs. Betty Kraft, and five grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

KRAMER 19a On March 17, 1982, ANNE (nee Lippert) of the late Mrs. William Kramer, beloved mother of Mrs. Robert Kramer, dear mother of Mrs. Betty Kramer, and five grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

KRAMER 19a On March 17, 1982, ANNE (nee Lippert) of the late Mrs. William Kramer, beloved mother of Mrs. Robert Kramer, dear mother of Mrs. Betty Kramer, and five grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

KRAMER 19a On March 17, 1982, ANNE (nee Lippert) of the late Mrs. William Kramer, beloved mother of Mrs. Robert Kramer, dear mother of Mrs. Betty Kramer, and five grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

KRAMER 19a On March 17, 1982, ANNE (nee Lippert) of the late Mrs. William Kramer, beloved mother of Mrs. Robert Kramer, dear mother of Mrs. Betty Kramer, and five grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

MACLEAN 19a On March 17, 1982, RICHARD J. of Ocean City, devoted husband of the late Mrs. Mary MacLean, devoted father of John and Charles MacLean, and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Friends are invited to call at the Johnson Funeral Home, 8521 Loch Raven boulevard, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at 11 A.M. interment at Mount Airy Cemetery.

SUNPAGES CLASSIFIED 539-7700

DEATH NOTICES (215) DEATH NOTICES (215) DEATH NOTICES (215)